WORK STUDY

VOLUME 16 DECEMBER / JANUARY 2006

A Sunny Christmas in Australia

Christmas is coming! The decorations are up around the city and kids are counting the number of "sleeps" until Christmas. They are getting excited because Father Christmas (Santa) is going to come from the South-Pole, climb down the chimney and give presents to all the good children. The parents are preparing the presents, Christmas tree and Christmas dinner. There is no such thing as a "White Christmas" in Australia. For Australians, Christmas is a time of sunshine, hot weather, and water activities. Many families spend the day by the swimming pool or beach. Forget about building snowmen, try building a sand-castle at the beach instead!

An Australian Christmas is something you won't forget. Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year from all the staff at Work Study!
